"That isn't the question that I am employed and paid to answer," interrupted Duncan. "You have other and vastly greater interests than those of the mines that would be served by the extension of the railroad. But the financiers who are asked to put their money into this project will be in no wise benefited either by the increased earnings of your coal mine and ours or by the development of your other and far greater interests that are dependent upon this extension. So when they employ me to report upon the project I am not free to consider any of these things. I must consider only their interests. I must ask myself whether or not it will 'pay' them to undertake this extension. I know that it will not. I know that the extended line cannot within a generation to come pay even operating expenses, to say nothing of interest on the cost of construction. I am bound to set forth those facts in my report. They pay me to tell them what the facts are. Of course, I shall tell them truly. Otherwise I should not be an honest man. I should be a swindler, taking their money as pay for deceiving them and inducing them to undertake a losing enterprise."

"Oh, that's all right. But you might be mistaken, you know. You've formed a judgment after a brief trip through the country. That country seems poverty stricken just now, but that's because it hasn't enjoyed the stimulating influence of a railroad. It is a better country than you think as er as it is, you needn't improve it, and you need not be known in the matter in any way. I'm talking 'business' now."

Duncan scanned the face of his interlocutor for an instant. Then he rose from his seat, and with utterance choked by emotion managed to say: "I quite understand. You would bribe me with that check. You would hire me to betray the confidence of the men who are paying me a very much smaller sum than $10,000. You propose to buy my integrity, my honor, my soul. Very well. My integrity, my honor and my soul are not for sale at any price. I shall make an honest report in this matter. Good night, sir! I am not such a scoundrel as you hoped I might be."

And with that Guilford Duncan stalked out of the house, helping himself to his hat as he passed the rack in the entry way.

CHAPTER XVIII.

IF Guilford Duncan had been a little more worldly wise than he was he would have gone at once to Captain Will Hallam. He would have told that shrewdest of shrewd men of the world all that had passed between himself and Tandy, and he would have asked Will Hallam's advice as to what course to pursue.

Instead of that Guilford Duncan went at once to Barbara. He had a need of sympathy rather than a need of advice, and he had learned to look to Barbara, above all other people in the world, for sympathy.

He was still a good deal disturbed in his emotions when Barbara greeted him on the little porch, and it was a rather confused account that he gave her of what had happened.

"I don't quite understand," said Barbara at last. "Perhaps if you have a cup of tea you can make the matter clearer," and, without waiting for assent or dissent, she glided out to the kitchen, whence she presently returned bearing a fragrant cup of Oolong.

"Now," she said after he had sipped the tea, "tell me again just what has happened. You were too much excited when you told me before to tell me clearly."

"Well, it amounts to this," answered Duncan. "That scoundrel Tandy"—"Stop!" said Barbara in an authoritative tone. "Never mind Tandy's character. If you go off on that you'll never make me understand."

In spite of his agitation Duncan laughed. "How you do order me about!"

"Oh, pardon me!" exclaimed the girl in manifest alarm. "I didn't mean to do that. I would never think of doing such a thing. I only meant"—

"My dear Miss Barbara, I fully understand. I need ordering about to-night, and I heartily wish you would take me in hand."

"Oh, but I could never presume to do that!"

"I don't see why," answered Duncan. "You are my good angel, and it is the business of my good angel to regulate me and make me behave as I should."

"But, Mr. Duncan"—

"But Barbara"—"It was the first time he had ever addressed her by her given name and without the "Miss"—"You know I love you, or you ought to know it. You know I want you to be my wife. Say that you will and then I shall be free to tell you all my troubles and to take your advice in all of them. Say that you love me, Barbara! Say that you will marry me!"

All this was in contravention of Guilford Duncan's carefully laid plans, as a declaration of love is apt to be so long as women are fascinating and men are human. He had intended to put the thought of his love for Barbara into her unsuspecting mind by ingenious "trick and device." It had been his plan presently to escort her to church, to the concert at the new and then hold forth at the Athenaeum, to Mrs. Hallam's for a game of croquet, to Mrs. Gallagher's for the little dances that that gracious gentlewoman gave now and then even in the heat of a southern Illinois summer. He had even chartered a steamboat and planned to give a picnic in the Kentucky woodlands below Cairo, to which he should escort Barbara. He had thought in these ways to set the tongues of all the gossips wagging and thus to force upon Barbara the thought of his love for her.

Strike of Laundry Workers.
San Francisco, April 2.—Twelve hundred laundry workers here and 600 in Alameda county yesterday voted to go on strike when their employers refused to grant them an eight-hour day and an increase of wages.

Deadly Collision in Texas.
Fort Worth, Tex., April 2.—In a collision between two freight trains on the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroad at Bethel Switch, six miles south of here, six men were killed. Thirty freight cars were burned.

Governor Hanly, who has been very seriously ill for the past week, was able to leave his bed today. He is now recovering and expects to be able to resume work at his office by Wednesday or Thursday.

Neighbors Hold the Bag.
Windfall, Ind., April 2.—John Cue, the livestock dealer who disappeared several days ago, after worsening the Kempton bank in his operations, as alleged, besides an Indianapolis commission house, is also accused of defrauding other people by his methods. Ward Jackson of Kempton is said to hold a note for $300, to which the signatures of sureties are declared to be forged, and Benjamin Mott, a neighbor, is also a victim for a similar amount. Nothing has been heard of Cue since his flight.

INDIANA LOOKING ON

Taft-Foraker Tilt Has Significance In This State.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 2.—The contest between the Taft and the Foraker forces for the Ohio Republican delegation to the next national convention is being watched with intense interest throughout Indiana. Each and every move in the big game has some significance for the politicians of this state, who are sure that it will have a decided bearing on the chances of Vice President Fairbanks. The latter's lieutenants have counted Ohio as their "very own" since the memorable state campaign of two years ago, when Ohio went Democratic. The Fairbanks men here have not figured that Secretary Taft could come through with his own state after that famous speech at Akron, and in view of the attitude of Senator Foraker and his allies. Later, when Senator Foraker tackled the president on the Brownsville matter the Fairbanks men figured him out of the race, as they did not see how he could succeed with the president against him. With Taft and Foraker tugging at each other's throats the Fairbanks men have consoled themselves with the reflection that when the pace becomes so hot that Ohio could not be for either without splitting the party, they would land the state for their candidate. In fact, they can't see how Ohio will land in either the column of Foraker or of Taft or how either can become a formidable presidential candidate so long as the state is divided. The vice president is a native of Ohio and his loyal followers here believe that the state will very naturally turn to him when it has had its fill of the Taft-Foraker tilt. However, the contest over the Ohio delegation has caused the Fairbanks boomers to bestir themselves, as they now feel that it is up to them to get busy throughout the country if they are to keep in the running. They are not disclosing any of their plans, but they seem choke full of confidence that the vice president will be strictly in the running right from the start.

A member of the state senate, a leader on the Republican side, made the somewhat surprising statement today that if it had been left to the Republican senators during the recent session to decide who should succeed United States Senator James A. Hemenway, that Lieutenant Governor Hugh T. Miller of Columbus would have received a practically unanimous vote. He was not attempting to start a senatorial boom for the lieutenant governor, but he declared that he voiced the hearty sentiment of nearly all of his associates in saying that Mr. Miller would easily have been their choice for the United States senate. He did go so far as to predict that Mr. Miller may yet land in the United States senate if he continues to grow in popularity throughout the state. It is the general impression now, however, that Mr. Miller aspires to the Republican nomination for governor next year, and that such a thing as running for the senate against Mr. Hemenway has never entered his mind. It is being conceded that if he should enter the gubernatorial race he will be a very strong factor. No other lieutenant governor ever made a cleaner record, and throughout the entire state his praises are being sung by the members of the senate—Democrats as well as Republicans, and by others who had business with the legislature.

James Epperson, state mine inspector, has appointed Wellington O'Connor of Terre Haute as one of the deputies under the new mine inspection law. O'Connor was until recently president of the Indiana mine workers' union. The place will pay him $1,200 annually and expenses. O'Connor is a miner of twenty-three years' experience and was highly recommended by miners and operators for appointment.

If you eat a little too much, or if you are subject to attacks of Indigestion, you have no doubt had shortness of breath, rapid heart beats, heartburn or palpitation of the heart. Indigestion causes the stomach to expand—swell, and puff up against the heart. This crowds the heart and interferes with its action, and in the course of time the heart becomes diseased.

UP TO THE PEOPLE

Chicago Today Seeking to Determine a Question of Years' Standing.

BITTER MUNICIPAL FIGHT

Never in the History of the City Has a Mayorality Contest Excited So Much Attention.

Sirenous Fight For Head of the City Government Draws a Large Vote to the Polls.

Chicago, April 2.—Chicago's street-car question, which has been before the public for the past ten years, will be settled at the polls today at the mayorality election, if the voters adopt by referendum vote the ordinance recently passed by the city council over Mayor Dunne's veto, granting twenty-year franchises to the two streetcar companies.

If these ordinances fail of public adoption and Mayor Dunne, the Democratic candidate, is re-elected, efforts will be made at once, according to Mayor Dunne, to procure immediate municipal ownership of the street railways.

The ordinances before the people provide that the city on six months' notice may acquire the street railway systems for $50,000,000 plus the cost of rehabilitation, which is to be undertaken immediately under the supervision of the city engineer. The ordinances also provide for through routes, universal transfers, 5-cent fares and the payment to the city of 55 per cent of the net income. The books of the company are to be open to the city officials.

Several non-partisan organizations have worked with the Republicans, who are supporting Postmaster Fred A. Buess for mayor, to procure the adoption of the ordinances; and the prediction is made today by the heads of these independent bodies that the ordinances will be adopted. Mayor Dunne believes that the people want immediate municipal ownership and that they will re-elect him and reject the ordinances.

The campaign which closed last night with both parties holding scores of meetings all over the city has been the most spirited fight for mayor that has ever taken place in this city. The feeling between the candidates and their lieutenants became so bitter during the campaign that "personal abuse" has been the issue for over two weeks. With the weather clear and warm today as heavy a ballot as a presidential election would bring out is being polled.

DIFFERENCES LESSENING

Railway Trainmen Have Reduced Their Demands a Shade.

Chicago, April 2.—The railway employees in the train service of the Western railroads have reduced their demands to a nine-hour workday, and the government officials who came to Chicago last week to bring about a peaceable adjustment of the threatened strike are working hard to overcome that obstacle. The men have signified their willingness to accept the wage increase offered by the railroads, if the managers would grant the demand for the nine-hour workday. The labor delegates declared that the wage increase asked for was a minor consideration with them, but that they could not face their constituents without securing improvements in the working conditions.

Supply of Red Hats Limited.

Rome, April 2.—The disappointment of a large number of Americans over the fact that there is not an American among the prelates who are to be created cardinals at the consistory of April 15, has been brought to the attention of the pope, who said: "Let them have patience; they will be satisfied later. The number of red hats is limited, while the candidates are many."

Executed Their Own Judgment.

Kursk, Russia, April 1.—Druzsanimoff, an ex-policeman, who was sentenced February 21 to a year's imprisonment for torturing peasants during a punitive expedition, has been killed by peasant prisoners in the jail here. They captured him and held a regular court and executed him by dashing out his brains against the floor.

ON THE TOP SHELF

Is the Place For Theological Dogmas, Says the Rev. Dr. Davis W. Clark.

REFERS TO THEM AS CURIOS

Methodist Ministers at Cincinnati Have a Sizzling Session Following This Bold Statement.

Dr. Clark Started Things Going by His Denunciation of Heresy Hunters.

Cincinnati, April 2.—The Methodist ministers had a sizzling session Monday in the Methodist Book Concern. All was serene until the Rev. Davis W. Clark declared that theological dogmas are "curios that could well be kept on the top shelf." Immediately there was a storm, mostly of protest. However, a few of the ministers sided with Dr. Clark. The subject was so enthralling that nearly everybody present desired to voice his protest or his defense of Dr. Clark's words.

Dr. Clark was led to make his statement about dogmas being "curios" in his reference to Prof. H. G. Mitchell of Boston university, who has been on trial before the board of bishops on charges of teaching heresy. Dr. Clark said: "I protest against the manner in which the ecclesiastical authorities have been trying his case. The board of bishops receive him practically condemned already and with his case unjustly weakened. Here is a great scholar of whom the Methodist church may well be proud, virtually exiled."

A murmur of disapproval swept over the audience at the words "curios," and as soon as Dr. Clark sat down half a dozen preachers tried to get the floor to voice their disapproval.

Dr. Nast, editor of the publication from which Dr. Clark had quoted, was the first to speak. He begged to be pardoned for a personal allusion, but told how his father, one of the founders of German Methodism in America, had escaped from rationalism after seven years of intellectual agony. Dr. Clark answered by declaring that even the famous old Rev. Nast had been a disciple of higher criticism in his day and he was prepared to prove it by quotations. "I am very sorry to hear that the doctor believes our dogmas have no living value," was Dr. Nast's closing remark.

Dr. Clark said: "Now I am opposed to making any more theological definitions. God save us from them! The kingdom of God is within you. You cannot write it in books. It is love and service and faith. Our dogmas may well be kept as curios and placed on the top shelf. We may keep them as we do our 'Rule of Conduct for Preachers,' which we have not destroyed, but which we simply preserve as a curio, although we know it cannot be observed and enforced in this day and represents the ideas of the past."

The Rev. H. O. Enwall said: "The church will suffer an incalculable loss in casting out so lovely a soul as is Dr. Mitchell."

Dr. M. Pearson said: "I desire to voice a strong protest against the attitude that our creed is a curio fit for the top shelf."

The Rev. Albert Thomas followed with this dramatic statement: "The action of the bishop was vicious and a discredit to the church. Dr. Mitchell is an inspiration. If he is a heretic, I would like to be one like him."

"I do not care what becomes of me ecclesiastically," said Dr. Clark in closing.

Starved Himself to Death.

Anderson, Ind., April 2.—William Johnson, aged eighty-nine years, the oldest inmate of the Madison county infirmary, is dead. For several weeks he insisted that it was time for him to die, and later refused to eat, practically starving himself to death.

THE GROUND COVERED

The President Has Nothing to Add on Railroad Situation.

Washington, April 2.—President Roosevelt has written a letter to the president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, declining the invitation of that organization to speak at Springfield on the railroad situation.

The president says it would be a waste of time for him to accept the invitation, because he would only repeat what he has already said in public addresses and messages to congress.

He makes it clear that he is in favor of government supervision of railroads, believing that it will be beneficial both to the corporations and the public.

He again points out the danger of overcapitalization and expresses the hope that proper laws will be enacted to remedy this evil.

The president declares with emphasis that he is not making war on the railroads, but says that when he asks for a square deal he means a square deal.

Recent developments, he says, have only served to convince him that his previous utterances with reference to railroads and other corporations are correct. He urges that additional power be given the interstate commerce commission, and justifies the new interstate commerce law.

Not an Ordinary Memory.

The driver of the furniture moving van admitted that he had a very bad memory. In fact he could hardly remember what work he had performed the day before.

"No, I can't recall just where it was that Mr. Suddenmove had me take his household goods. My memory is very poor, sir," he replied to the bill collector.

"But you moved him a week ago?" "Yes, sir, but you see we move so many people that it's a hard matter to recollect."

The bill collector slipped a half dollar in the man's palm. "That ought to do your memory good," he remarked. "It ought to," the man replied, "but you see this ain't no common, every day memory of mine, and it has to be jogged considerably. Why, it cost Mr. Suddenmove a dollar to make me forget."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Moody Offers His Cure.
Dwight L. Moody once called on a ministerial brother in an eastern town, desiring to spend the next day, Sunday, with him. The minister was agreeable, but said that he was ashamed to ask Moody to preach.

"Why?" asked Mr. Moody. "Well," was the reply, "our people have got such a habit of going out before the close of the meeting that it would be an imposition on a stranger."

"I will preach," said Moody. When Sunday arrived, Mr. Moody opened the meeting, and then encouragingly said: "My hearers, I am going to speak to two sorts today—the sinners first, then the saints." After earnestly addressing the supposed sinners, he said that they could now take their hats and go. But the whole congregation waited and heard him to the end.—Boston Herald.

King Solomon's Vase.
In the ancient cathedral of Genoa a vase of immense value has been preserved for 600 years. It is cut from a single emerald. Its principal diameter is 12½ inches, and its height 5½ inches. It is kept under several locks, the keys of which are in different hands, and it is rarely exhibited in public, then only by an order of the senate. When exhibited it is suspended round the neck of a priest by a cord, and no one is allowed to touch it but him. It is claimed that this vase is one of the gifts which was made to Solomon by the Queen of Sheba.

CITY COUNCIL

Votes To Grant Use of Streets For a Carnival.

The city council was called to order last evening shortly after 7:30. Mayor and all councilmen present. Minutes approved.

Bretthauer thought the telephone committee should make a report. It was stated Manager Reed of the telephone company had promised to be at the meeting of the Board of Public Works on next Thursday evening. The council is anxious for a readjustment of rates which will cause them to be more uniform.

Cordes reported that the special committee had been unable to see the civil engineer of the Pennsylvania railway about the drainage near the freight house. Clerk instructed to write the engineer to be here next week and notify committee of date arranged.

City Attorney reported that no more word had been received from Mr. Campbell as to the bill for interest on the city bonds, which was presented to the council at a previous meeting.

Robertson, of park committee, reported that he had found no one yet to paint the seats at the park.

The following accounts and claims were allowed:

The bills of Shields & Shields for $60.70 and $54.60, for gravel and hauling, were referred to the board of public works. The bill of H. Walters for erroneous assessment was referred to the finance committee.

A petition was presented by a number of the interested property owners asking for an alley north and south from 5th street to 6th, between Chestnut St. and Indianapolis avenue. Unanimous vote to grant prayers of petitioners.

Resolutions were adopted on the death of the late Dr. John T. Shields who was for a long time a member of the city council.

In accordance with a petition heretofore granted for a sewer on Brown street, a motion was passed that the council direct the engineer to prepare plans and specifications for the construction of same from the east line of Carter St. to Pine St. to intersect with the main sewer and report at next council meeting.

An ordinance was introduced by Morton to prevent the running of storm water into the sanitary sewers. Resolutions were adopted on the death of John Oesting, a former member of the city council.

The ordinances to place flagmen at S. I. crossings at Seventh St. and at Ewing St. passed their second readings and the hours were put at from 6 a. m. to 6 p. m.

The motion by Jerrell that the policy on the old city building be canceled created quite a discussion. The City Attorney promised to find out this morning whether or not Mr. Bush had had the building insured for the benefit of the city as per contract.

Jerrell moved that the request of the park board and a number of citizens for the use of the streets for a street carnival, the proceeds to go to the improvement of the city park be granted. In behalf of the W. C. T. U. and about a dozen other religious and other organizations of the city including the Retail Merchant's Association. Mrs. M. C. Carpenter, presented a number of petitions asking that the council should not grant the use of the streets for street fairs and carnivals. Mrs. Carpenter followed this with a general talk. She thought that the whole number of petitions were signed by a very representative committee. The first impression was that there was nothing bad in street fairs. The city has never yet entirely recovered from the evil effects of former street carnivals, she said. Mrs. M. F. Gerrish also made short talk. Jerrell replied to the effect that the petitions should have been presented earlier. Quite a discussion followed by members of the council and other citizens present. The citizens and a portion of the councilmen spoke against the petition, some of the councilmen favoring it. Following are some of the points made in the discussion:

There has already been considerable expense in getting ready. $700 or 800 has already been raised by the business men. Morton thinks that if they will put the money into the park that the carnival costs it will make a good park. The carnival will take more money out of the city than it will bring in. The city pays the bills. Jerrell stated that the city would only be expected to fill the water barrels and that the committee would do that if necessary. Bretthauer had signed Jerrell's petition with the idea of improving the park but had since been convinced that it was a mistake. He thought they should know how much of the proceeds was going into the park fund. It was promised last year that the city would be to no expense, but when it came to the test there was almost an endless number of bills and accounts to be paid by the city. The law as to closing hours of saloons, etc., should be followed to the letter. At the last street fair there was no gambling and the saloons were closed promptly at 11 o'clock. Cordes thought that perhaps he himself, along with other business men had been a little hasty in giving his consent, unofficially, for a street fair. Many business men will object to a booth in front of their place of business. It makes good business for one week and a dead town for the next three or four weeks. It would in a large measure be against the wishes of the people of the city. Ahlert signed the petition when seen by Jerrell but had seen a dozen business men since and every man said he would rather give his money direct for the improvement of the city park. Weaver stated that every councilman but one had signed the petition favoring the street fair. It was suggested that the committee had been hasty in having signed the contract with the carnival company. Understood that the city will get 10 per cent of proceeds for improvement of park. Robertson was approached by the petition and signed it.

Mrs. Carpenter asked the city attorney as to the law on obstruction of high ways and was informed that it could not be done if there was any objection raised. There was no 10 per cent mentioned in the request. Jerrell stated that they would promise the city at least $300. The council voted 5 to 2 in favor of granting the use of the streets.

Various instructions were given on street and drainage improvements about the city. The Chief of Police was instructed to serve notice on Mr. Leach to remove a number of wagons and other obstructions from the street. Bretthauer moved that the city civil engineer view the street running east from the south end of Chestnut street along the interurban line and also the proposed extension of South Carter street, and report on the same by the time of the next meeting of the council.

Chris Moritz was given permission to cut an elm tree in East Side Park. Jerrell thought that the interurban company should pay for the catch basins at Tipton and Chestnut streets and was informed that such an agreement had already been reached.

Weaver thought the property owners should be notified not to throw their ashes in the narrow alley by the side of and near the Pearl laundry. Morton had heard several complaints during the past week concerning the removal of ashes and stops and had asked the people to give the garbage haulers time to get caught up.

Street commissioner asked what he should pay per load for gravel hauled from the river. Cordes thought 50 cents per load. Ahlert thought all gravel should be screened. Robertson thought unscreened gravel made the best street. Morton thought screened gravel would cost $1.00 per load. Cordes favored screened gravel only when street roller can be used.

Unscreened gravel packs most readily.

Motion to require all gravel to be screened was lost by a vote of 4 to 3. Jerrell thought that before or after the meeting of the Board of Public Works on next Thursday evening, there should be a special meeting of the council to decide on what curb and gutter they are going to put in this spring. Morton thought that the best results would be secured by letting whole blocks of curb and gutter work to the same contractors without having it pieced in by two or three different contractors. Others thought that the property owners should be allowed to let these contracts to a man of their own choice.

It was thought that no such work should be paid for till approved by the city engineer. Cordes favors a resolution later that the city let all such contracts.

On motion it was decided to have a special meeting of the council next Thursday evening after the adjournment of the Board of Public Works. Council adjourned shortly after 9:30.

Chicago's Postmaster.

Postmaster Russo has an automobile which he is too modest to use. He thought it would be a fine thing in which to ride to and from his office, but when the machine arrived, he said it was "too grand" for him, and that he would continue using his horse and buggy until he could get used to the new magnificence. He is still riding in the buggy.

Where Mushrooms Grow.

Mushrooms grow in many strange places—among them the catacombs at Paris. Of late another curious field for their growth has been selected in France. The St. Denis department of the Seine railway tunnel is no longer used for the purpose for which it was originally intended. The ground therein has been cut up into ridges, divided from each other by means of furrows, upon which whole battalions of mushrooms are now flourishing. In Scotland a company is now growing mushrooms in a tunnel 3,000 feet long. It was originally built by the North British railway, and is 60 feet below the streets of Edinburg.

SCHUBERT QUARTET

Will Repeat Concert on Wednesday Night of this Week.

The concert given by the Schubert male quartet last night at the German Lutheran school hall proved a success beyond all expectation, and it was a delightful throng that left the hall, after indulging in one of the finest exhibitions of harmonious quartet singing heard here in many a day. These gentlemen, Messrs. George and Ed Schmidt, basses and Messrs. P. Felten and Juan Reuter, tenors, are theological students of the Concordia Seminary at St. Louis, Mo., and are spending their Easter holidays at the home of one of the members, Mr. Ed Schmidt. While here the quartet (which by the way enjoys a wide spread reputation in the northwest, where they have often gone on concert tours) consented to entertain their Seymour friends, and the result was a success beyond the shadow of a doubt. Sacred, secular and comic songs vied with each other in creating a "hit" and most generously did the singers respond to the applause of the delighted audience with catchy and funny encores. The hit of the evening was undoubtedly the excellent rendition of Conny Mack's "Little Martha," a solo by Mr. Reuter with quartet accompaniment. A number of violin selections by Mr. Gottfried Smukal, one of St. Louis' foremost violin virtuosos, also appeared on the program and their excellent rendering electrified the audience. Seldom has the like been heard, and critics do not hesitate to predict a great future for the youthful genius. A piano solo, excellently rendered by Paul Brunow and a piano duet, pleasing in its exactness and careful preparation, by the Misses Luella Brandt and Martha Schmidt, served to fill out the splendid program, and met with generous applause.

After the concert, a number of music lovers, upon learning that the students intended remaining till Thursday, requested them to give another entertainment, for the edification of such as could not be present last night. The gentlemen kindly consented to do so and will repeat their concert, with an entire change of program, however, on Wednesday evening at 8 p. m. at the German schoolhouse. This is an opportunity which lovers of good music should not miss, as it will afford them a rare treat.

A New Political Trick.

A number of years ago, at a small town in Maine, an important local election was to take place, and there was strong rivalry between the Republicans and Democrats. Old Hiram Morse, the blacksmith, was a strong Democrat, but many of the farmers were Republicans.

On the morning of the election a farmer came in to have his horse shod. The blacksmith said to him: "We're both busy. You're a Republican and I'm a Democrat. Let's pair off. We'll neither of us vote, and it will amount to the same as if we both voted."

This was agreed upon. After election it was found out that Morse had paired off with five Republican farmers.—Rochester Herald.

Helping the Face.

When using the complexion brush, when drying the face with a towel, when applying the cosmetic, all the general movements must be upward and outward. These upward motions give life and vivacity to the face, while downward ones bring doleful droops and appearances of despondency. It is a good thing to learn to keep the face brightened and cheerful, for this habit will keep lines from forming. The complexion brush used every night with warm water and a pure soap will remove the blackheads and by stimulating the circulation and putting the tissue in healthy condition will gradually refine the texture and cause the enlarged pores to shrink to smaller proportions. After using the brush a good skin food must be rubbed in.

Starch Spoils Lace.

One common fault with lace curtains which are done up at home is that they are too stiff for their texture. Lace should never be stiff. It is contrary to its essential delicacy, and starch is only permissible when it is quite subservient to the softness and grace of the fabric. Only lace of a coarse mesh can stand much stiffening, and a little starch in the rinsing water is usually as much as can possibly be needed by the average net curtain. Gum arabic may be used instead of starch, and some advise gelatin for very choice lace. If an old appearance is desired, the liquid may be tinted with saffron, which is better than coffee, because it has no odor and will not attract flies, as the latter is apt to do.

Carnegie Tells of Fear.

Andrew Carnegie is famous for the advice he gives to poor young men. "In considerable fear," said a New York millionaire, "I once consulted Mr. Carnegie about a new venture. The business looked as if it ought to be profitable. There seemed to be a public need of it. Still, there was some risk involved and I was afraid."

"But Mr. Carnegie laughed at my fear. 'It is a good thing; plunge in,' he said. 'Fear is old womanish. Fear is what keeps untold millions from making fortunes. When Benjamin Franklin thought of starting a paper in Philadelphia his mother, greatly alarmed, tried to dissuade him. She pointed out that there were already two newspapers in America.'"—Rochester Herald.

MUSIC CLUB

Program by Mr. and Mrs. McGibeny One of Rare Merit.

The second annual open meeting by the Progressive Musical Club Tuesday evening was a most delightful musical and social event. Invitations were issued by the Club to as many as could be accommodated in the banquet hall in the Masonic Temple and all present spent a very enjoyable evening. The arrangements made by the Club were perfect and each guest received a hearty welcome.

At 8:30 Mrs. W. P. Masters, president of the Musical Club stepped to the platform and in well chosen words introduced Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McGibeny, of Indianapolis, who gave the program of the evening. They are musicians of rare skill and entertainers of unusual versatility. Every number on the program was skillfully rendered and the generous applause and numerous encores showed the appreciation of the audience. Mr. McGibeny is one of the most noted violinists in the country and he has delighted audiences in many states. In musical monologue Mrs. McGibeny showed remarkable ability and every selection she gave was highly pleasing to every one in the audience. Her selections were well chosen, varied in their nature and skillfully executed.

At the conclusion of the program all remained for a social hour and to meet Mr. and Mrs. McGibeny. Punch was served.

While here Mr. and Mrs. McGibeny were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Masters. They returned home this morning.

The piano used was the Clough & Warren sold by Mrs. Guernsey.

Dog Did Wrong Trick.

The Irishman wanted to sell the dog, but the prospective buyer was suspicious and finally decided not to buy. The man then told him why he was so anxious to sell. "You see," he said, "I bought the dog and trained him himself. I got him so he'd bark all the time if a person stepped inside the gate, and I thought I was safe from burglars. Then my wife wanted me to train him to carry bundles, and I did. If I put a packet in his mouth the dog would keep it there till some one took it away. Well, one night I woke up and heard some one in the next room. I got up and grabbed my gun. They were there—three of the scoundrels and the dog."

"Didn't he bark?" said the man. "Sorry a bark; he was too busy."

"Busy? What doing?"

"Carrying a lantern for the burglars."—Dublin Freeman.

CURED BY CUTICURA AT EXPENSE OF 75c.

"My little boy in the Spring of 1901, when only an infant of three months, caught the Cuban Itch from one of my neighbor's babies. Sores broke out from his head to the bottom of his feet. He would itch and claw himself and cry all the time. He could not sleep day or night. I had to wheel him in his carriage most all the while to keep him still. He could not bear to have his clothing touch him, and only a light dress all he could wear. I can't begin to speak in words the suffering the poor child had to endure. I called one of our best doctors to treat him, and he said he had the Cuban Itch, and his treatment did not do any good. He seemed to get worse. He suffered so terribly that my husband said he believed he would have to die. I had almost given up hope when a lady friend told me to try the Cuticura Remedies. She said she cured her little girl's ear, which was nearly eaten up with the eczema. I got a cake of Cuticura Soap and one box Cuticura Ointment, and I washed him all over with the Cuticura Soap and applied the Cuticura Ointment and he at once fell into a sleep, and he slept with ease for the first time since two months. When he awoke I applied it again, and it gave him much ease, and after three applications the sores began to dry up and improvement began to show, and in a few days the hide from the bottom of his feet and inside of his hands began to peel off. I only used one cake Cuticura Soap and one box Cuticura Ointment to complete the cure of the dreadful disease, and in just two weeks from the day I commenced to use the Cuticura Remedies my baby was entirely well. The treatment only cost me 75c, and I would have gladly paid $100 if I could not have got it any cheaper. I feel safe in saying that the Cuticura Remedies saved his life. He is now a boy of five years, and as well as any child you ever saw. Mrs. Zana Miller, Union City, N. K., No. 1, Branch Co., Mich., May 17, 1906.

The chief piece is the punch bowl, in the shape of a galleon, ornamented with a figure representing Triton, the trumpeter of Neptune. Art is a high deck ornamented with festoons of laurel and oak leaves; around the guards are the dodendrons, the state flower, and on the sides are bunches of grapes and leaves, between which are the seals of the state and navy. In the center on one side is a representation of the cruiser in raised gold.

REACHED AGREEMENT

New Postal Convention Entered Into Between Neighbors.

Washington, April 2.—At a conference between Postmaster General L. M. of Canada and Postmaster General Mayer of the United States in this city an agreement was reached to amend the postal convention existing between the two countries in so far as it affects the transmission of newspapers and periodicals, known as second-class matter, between the two countries. Canada accepts the tentative proposal of this country that second-class matter mailed in one country and addressed to the other might be subject to a rate of one cent for each four ounces.

Under the arrangement which has heretofore existed such mail matter has been transmitted to destination in either country on payment of the regular second-class rate, no fiscal settlement being made on account of the difference in volume of the mail received by one country over that received by the other. On account of the very large preponderance of mail matter going from this country to Canada over that received from that country, the agreement has operated very materially to the advantage of this country. The rate agreed upon is substantially the transient second-class rate which the individual citizen of the United States now enjoys, the exception being that publishers of the United States have an additional privilege of mailing in bulk packages, at the rate named, separately addressed newspapers and periodicals intended for delivery to subscribers at one post-office, and the cost to publishers of the United States will be at least 50 per cent less than if the postal union rate should be applied.

A BIG FALLING OFF

Notable Decrease In Receipts at

Office of Internal Revenue

Collector.

GOING OUT OF BUSINESS

Figures Show That Saloons Are Closing Out, and Druggists Are Giving Up the Sale of Liquor.

Decrease In Amount of Special Tax Shows a Significant State of Affairs.

Terre Haute, Ind., April 2.—A notable decrease in receipts at the office of the Seventh internal revenue district here for March was that from the special tax—the tax on saloon keepers and druggists who sell liquor. The falling off was from $1,074 last year to $668 this year. This means that saloons are going out of business and that druggists are cutting out liquor trade. Receipts at the Seventh internal revenue district office for March amounted to $1,678,480, and while that is an increase of $276,817 over March of last year, it is several hundred thousand dollars less than expected ten days ago. The two local distilleries suddenly decreased their daily capacity, and the average of $75,000 daily payment to the office of two-thirds of the month was not maintained. A number of gaugers and store-keepers who had counted on full time work were laid off. The total for the first nine months of the fiscal year is $14,432,576, a gain of $2,403,405 over the same nine months of the previous year. Practically all the increase is from the tax on spirits.

COVERT CASE CALLED

Tharp at Scipio.

North Vernon, Ind., April 2.—The case of the state against Elijah Covert, growing out of the murder of Charles Tharp at Scipio, Dec. 26, 1906, is on trial in the circuit court. When the indictment was read the defendant entered a plea of not guilty. Congressman Dixon and Judge Willard New represent the defense, while Henry N. Spaan of Indianapolis and William Fitzgerald of this county are assisting the state. The work of impugning a jury is expected to consume much time, as the case has attracted widespread attention in the county. The trial will be bitterly contested by both sides.

Thaw Jurors Impatient.

New York, April 2.—The members of the Thaw jury have drawn up a petition to Justice Fitzgerald, asking him to allow them $5 a day for jury service, instead of the customary allowance of $2 a day.
